Fee Insight logo family: designer brief

Oct 14, 2026 · @James

The ask

Redraw three approved logos in Geist at production quality. The concepts, layout and colours are decided; the job is precise letterforms, spacing and optical balance, plus the final file set. The current drafts are outlined from Inter Display ExtraBold as a stand-in and are not final art.

The three marks

Mark	What it is	Where it's used	Lockup	App icon / avatar
Fee Insight	The company	Corporate pages, invoices, report covers, email	"Fee" centred above "Insight"; the box-plot I starts line two. A one-line version for short headers.	Box-plot I on an ink tile

Mark	What it is	Where it's used	Lockup	App icon / avatar
Bank Fee Index	Free public fee data	Every consumer page and the public site header	One line, box-plot I in "Index", "Powered by Fee Insight" beneath	Horizontal range bar on a terracotta tile
Hamilton	B2B fee intelligence product	Hamilton site header, sales material	"Hamilton" in plain bold, "Powered by Fee Insight" beneath	The HI badge: Hamilton's H + the box-plot I on a square ink tile. Also the chat avatar.

The idea

One letter carries the whole brand: the capital I drawn as a box plot, the chart that shows a fee's spread across banks.

- Anatomy of the box-plot I: a top bar and a bottom bar (the min and max), a stem between them, and a terracotta box over the middle (the middle half of the market) split by a thin paper-coloured line (the median).
- It is a letter first. It must read as "I" in a word at a glance; the chart is the second read.
- Where it appears: the I in "Insight" and "Index", and the I of Hamilton's HI badge. HI is just a badge, not a product name; the double meaning ("hi", for the chat) is a bonus.
- Hamilton's wordmark has no box plot on purpose. It shares the family through type, colour and the endorsement line.

Keep vs refine

Keep exactly	Refine
The three names, their casing and the two endorsement lines	Letterforms: redraw everything in Geist at a heavy weight (around ExtraBold/Black)
The box-plot I's parts: bars, stem, box, median line	Box-plot I proportions so its weight matches the Geist letters next to it

Keep exactly	Refine
Fee Insight stacked with "Fee" centred; a one-line variant	Kerning around the box-plot I, especially I–n
Palette and roles (ink letters, terracotta box)	Optical sizing: a simplified box-plot I that still reads at 16px
Three distinct app icons: I on ink, range bar on terracotta, HI on ink	HI badge spacing and the H–I pairing
Hamilton = plain bold wordmark, no symbol in the word	Clear-space and minimum-size rules

Colour and type

Role	Light	Dark (reverse)
Ink (letters, tiles)	#1a1815	#f3ece3
Terracotta (box, BFI tile)	#c44b2e	#e8775a
Paper (background)	#faf7f2	#14120f
Endorsement line	#5f574b	#b3a797

Type: Geist (the site's UI font, free from Vercel / Google Fonts). Wordmarks heavy; the endorsement line Geist Medium at about a quarter of the wordmark's size.

Already tried and rejected

Save time: these routes were explored and turned down.

- Bank imagery: columns, porticos, pillars.
- Stock fintech symbols: arrows, rising bar charts, magnifying glasses, pie slices, price tags.
- Thin, muted, "austere" type; the brand wants weight and confidence.
- A box plot in Hamilton's wordmark (a two-box-plot H, a box-plot lowercase i).
- Literal Hamilton motifs: quill, tricorne hat, portrait silhouette.

- Navy/green, blue, lime, aubergine and yellow palettes; the heritage paper, ink and terracotta won.

Deliverables

- [ ] Fee Insight: stacked and one-line lockups, light and reverse
- [ ] Bank Fee Index: lockup with endorsement, light and reverse
- [ ] Hamilton: lockup with endorsement, light and reverse
- [ ] App icons: Fee Insight (I), Bank Fee Index (range bar), Hamilton (HI badge), each at 1024px and as a 16/32px favicon cut
- [ ] Box-plot I as a standalone glyph, full detail and a small-size version
- [ ] Files: SVG (outlined text) and PNG for every item; the working source file (Figma or Illustrator)
- [ ] A one-page usage sheet: clear space, minimum sizes, do's and don'ts